2. There was no technical sweep of the room immediately prior to the meeting since under instructions the FBI conducted a sweep on Monday. However, by special arrangement with Mahon, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]
A transcript was taken.

3. During the morning session the Director covered the Soviet military posture and Cline covered the Soviet economy. In an off-the-record statement the Director pointed out that Cline and several assistants were leaving tomorrow on a trip to certain European capitals to discuss the Soviet economy and that thereafter the Director was leaving two days later to discuss the same subject with leaders including heads of state. Mr. Mahon queried whether the Agency was familiar with a Scripps Howard writer, W. D. Friedenberg, who has a series of articles appearing on Eastern Europe. Cline is seeking information on this.

4. During the afternoon session, Mr. Helms covered all of his agenda items and Mr. Cline finished his agenda items. During the course of discussion of Communist China, Mr. Cline took certain remarks off the record dealing with the precise coverage [REDACTED] by U-2 photography. He also explained that this was sensitive operational information.

5. Mr. Mahon and Mr. Sikes particularly commented on the excellent briefing they had received. Mr. Sikes said this was the best briefing the group has ever received from CIA. The meeting will reconvene at one o'clock tomorrow.
